Queensland Firebirds set to even the score with the NSW Swifts

AFTER four consecutive wins the Queensland Firebirds are on a roll and ready to even the score with the NSW Swifts on Monday.

The Firebirds will travel to Sydney this weekend for one of their biggest challenges of the season to date hoping to continue their winning form against the so far undefeated Swifts.

Following a disappointing loss in round one, where the Firebirds fell just short of a win in a very physical match, the girls will be hoping to turn the tables on the Swifts and break the New South Wales teams winning streak.

Buoyed by their previous wins including being the first Australian team in the competition to defeat Southern Steel at home at Invercargill, the Firebirds will be looking to make it five in a row.

Captain Lauren Nourse said because the Swifts have still not lost a match, the game will be a huge challenge but the Firebirds are ready.

“We haven’t played them since round one and we have come a long way since then,” Nourse said.

“If we play as well as we did against the Vixens, we are well capable of winning the game.”

Firebirds fans can watch the Firebirds v Swifts match on ONE HD at 8.30pm.
